One of the features of the camp is an "automobile kitchen" designed by Capt. Stopford of the subsistence department, who has charge of the cooks and bakers' school at the Fresidio, a branch of which is operating the field bakeries here.

The kitchen is built on a powerful automobile truck and carries two cooks besides the chaufteur. It is designed to follow up troops in the field and is equipped to feed 450 men.

The "automobile kitchen" was given a practical test on the march from Monterey, when it was in constant use. It is the first experiment of the kind that has been made on the Pacific Coust and its utility has been demonstrated by Capt. Stopford.

OLYMPIA (Wash.) Sept. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I'm so homely. I'm better off out of this world than in it," were the last words of Josephine Chrissman of Shelton, this morning. After taking a fatal dose of strychnipe. The girl was only 16 years old and was attending the Shelton High School, working for her board with a preminent family of that town. This morning she told the woman at whose home she was staying that she bad swallewed strychnine and expected to be dead in a few minutes. The woman rushed for assistance, but upon her return Josephine was lying on the floor dead.

The young girl's parents live in the country near Shelton. No other cause than dissatisfaction with her personal appearance is given for the girl's rash act.

MUST COME

King and Bass held an important conference yesterday. Bass came down from his home in the Grand Cafion, where he has lived for thirty years, to join King in the big right. Their position is, first of all, that the leaders in the movement of the national conservation have never frankly and fairly stated what they mean by the term. Secondly, these gentlemen hold that the stand taken by former President Roosevelt before the Live Stock Association at Denver, would mean the withdrawal of the whole West as a field for prospecting.

Roosevelt before the Live slock as a field for prospecting.

Theodore Roosevelt told the live stock men that no patents to land from any public domain should be granted except under homestead. It is the opinion of Mr. King and Mr. Bass that this would sound the death knell of prospecting, and that if the prospector is removed from the land the development of the West will receive a staggering blow.

"This is a subject bristling with features which ought to reach out and grip the western man and hold him until he understands and until he has added his voice to a mighty protest, said King. "A dozen questions come to my mind when I think of it. Are the men of the West going to see great districts ruined for the sake of a political issue which has its birth and its sole reason for being in the East." Is our whole country to go down under a campaign slogan? Are we going to let the East, which has nothing to conserve, and which has severe-eighting to conserve, and which has everything to conserve, and which has everything to conserve, and which has everything to conserve, sacrifice itself that it may atone for the past extravagance of the East? Are we going to see the prospector driven from the land?

HITS THE PROSPECTOR.

"Now, we all know that the prospector driven from the land?

HITS THE PROSPECTOR.

"Now, we all know that the prospector is never the man who makes the money out of his big finds. We all know that after his veray of searchings, the man who promotes the property gets the first big sack, and the men who develop it get the rest. The prospector gets a little portion of the original aum for which the mine is bonded. After he has located a property worth while, has proved its worth by hundreds of feet of development work, and has kept its title clear by year, it is still a most difficult tax to patent his property, capital will never look at it. No man will take up an loll or a metal proposition, if he must do so on a lease subject to a forfeiture clause. It isn't business and it will not work. If the government itself should locate a mine, where the rain had uncovered a rich ledge, capital might take a chance at it with Uncle Sam as the landlord, but even then it would be shy of the proposition. A prospector would be a fool to outfit himself with such an outlook before him. If he could not go without danger of eviction at the hands of the first range in the landlord, but even then it would be shy of the proposition. A prospector would be a fool to outfit himself with such an outlook before him. When the proposition of conservation is sprung at the American Mining Congress in Los Angeles one week from tomorrow, there will be blood on the moon. knows whether or not the terms would be such as to make prospecting in the least practicable?

GREAT LEGAL BATTLE.

One of the greatest legal battles ever fought was that which resulted in the tremendous fine imposed upon the Standard Oil Company. Now, with the indictment in Chicago of ten big meat packers, it looks as if we are about to see a contest every it looks as if we are about to see a contest every bit as important.

Since the cow took to jumping over the moon and the price of pork went aviating the people of the entire land have paid more attention to the packers than they did even in the jungleized days, now little more than a memory. Thanks to electric light and gas a large number of people can get along without oil, but it has been proved by statistics that the average American hates to be divorced from meat. When first the prices had that jumping motion it was suggested that we might follow, for a brief time, the example of the gay old Biblical king, Netuchadnezzar. However, those Americans who substituted lettuce for steaks soon returned to the tenderloin. They may have cursed the meat packers, nevertheless they paid the prices demanded.

In view of the previous history of the so-called beef trust, the announcement of the indictments of In view of the previous history of the so-called beef trust, the announcement of the indictments of ten men whose names are known from ocean to ocean wherever a packing-house is roofed in, cannot be said to have caused any surprise. There has been an increasing demand in the country that the United States government "get after" men and not "soulless corporations." Col. Roosevelt gave public expression to this view when he said at Osawatomie, "I believe that the officers, and especially the directors, of corporations should be held personally responsible when any corporation breaks the law." In line with his idea of "clinching" the Roosevelt policies President Taft took the advice of his predecessor and the indictments at Chicago followed.

The prosecutions are to be under the famous sections two and three of the Sherman anti-trust act. Conspiracy, monopolization and restraint of trade are alleged in the bills returned against the men controlling the meat industry. Section two of the Sherman act states that every person who shall monopolize or attempt to monopolize or combine. Sherman net states that every person who shall monopolize, or attempt to monopolize, or combine, or conspire with any person or persons to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce among the several States or with foreign nations, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both. Section three declares combines and consideration in retrieval and considerations. spiracies in restraint of trade illegal, with punish-

All the men under fire are officials and directors of the National Packing Company and this is the third investigation which most of them have had to face at the hands of the Federal government. In July, 1905, sixteen packers and four companies were indicted, but in March, 1906, the famous "immunity bath" freed the packers. The second inves-tigation was started in 1909 and last March the Natigation was started in 1909 and tast march the Na-tional Packing Company and ten subsidiary con-cerns were proceeded against. The indictments were knocked out in June and investigations ordered to be renewed. These have resulted in the latest

The packers say they will not be satisfied with an "immunity bath" this time. They declare they will fight this battle to a finish and will show the people they are being "persecuted." They assert that their entire profits are not over 2½ per cent. of their total business and advance that as proof that no combination to depress the cost of live stock or to increase the prices of fresh meats could have been possible.

INLUCKY ARIZONA.

Once more, with the garment of State Arizona. Once more, with the garment of State-hood in sight, she has emulated the example of the locoed mule, who kicked the bag of barley contain-ing his supper into the ditch. New Mexico has been wise, and has postponed the consideration of the Populistic fads of the hour until after her admission, but Arizona proposes to cram them down the throat of a Republican Congress and a Repub-lican President. The Republican leaders in Ari-zons, be it said to their credit, refused to incorporate the initiative and referendum and the recall into their platform, while the Democrats recklessly rwallowed them all.

Then the L.-R. lamb and the Democratic lion lay

Then the L.-R. lamb and the Democratic lion lay down together, with the lamb inside the lion. In a way the Democrats divided with the L.-R. s They gave to the latter the platform and reserved the offices for themselves. The result is likely to be disastrous to Statehood, unless the Democratic delegates to the Constitutional Convention shall pursue the policy, not unusual with Democrats, of treating their party platform as a railroad car platform—something to get in upon, but not to stand

It will doubtless be urged with vehemence that it would be an outrage for Gongress or for the President to deny admission to Arizona because of her Democracy. This may be true, but it is the kind of an outrage that has been perpetrated ever since mise. It will be remembered that theretofore the balance of political power was evenly kept by ad-mitting free States and slave States alternately. and there being no more territory from which slave States could be carved, the Missouri compromise was repealed, and a desperate though futile effort was made to capture Kansas for slavery and Democracy.

Nevada, with an insufficient population, was coaxed into the Union during the war, for the avowed purpose of securing another loyal State. West Virginia was fairly forced in for the same reason. Nebraska, which adopted a Constitution excluding negroes from the right of suffrage, was rejected, until her people adopted a Constitution establishing manhood suffrage, when she was admitted. Colorado and the Dakotas were not admitted until Colorado and the Dakotas were not admitted unti they gave assurance of their loyalty to the Repub-lican party. Utah and Idaho were admitted under Mr. Cleveland's administration with the under-Mr. Cleveland's administration with the under-standing—which their people refused to carry out-that they would add four Senators to the Demo-cratic strength. In brief there is no single instance in the history of our government of a majority party admitting a new State which promised at the time of admission to add to the strength of the minority.

We want to see Arizona admitted. It would be to We want to see Arizona admitted. It would be to the interest of California and especially to the in-terests of Los Angeles, as well as to the interest of the people of Arizona that the Territory shall enter the Union as a State, even though her organic law shall be saturated with all the fads of Populism, and it is altogether probable that our Republican Senators and Congressmen will vote for her admis-sion even with a crank Constitution. But they will not be able to control Congress or the President. In the organic act providing for the formation of State governments for Arizona and New Mexico. In the organic act providing for the formation of State governments for Arizona and New Mexico, there was for the first time in our history a clause inserted requiring the Constitutions adopted by their people to be submitted to Congress and the President for approval. This was evidently intended to notify the people of the proposed new States that they would not be admitted to the Union unless their Constitutions were, as required by the Federal Constitution, "republican in form."

A Constitution which practically abolishes repre-

A Constitution which practically abolishes repretive, the referendum and the recall, remits the making and unmaking of laws and the term of officers to the passing caprice of a mob, is not republican in form, any more than it would be if it created a peerage or abolished trial by jury.

Unless the Arizona Democrats shall wisely create the customary vacuum between their promises and their performances and adopt a safe and sane Constitution in despite of their preelection pledges, we fear that Arizona will be compelled to wait awhile longer for admission to the Union.

S PALDING, WORKS OR——?

An evening paper, editorially, and in a naive manner (we do not spell it with a k) says:

"If it is sufficient that the nomination for Governor shall go to the person receiving the greatest number (meaning a plurality) of votes, what conceivable reason is there for refusing the nomination for Federal Senator to the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes for that office?"

Because don't way are constant.

Because, don't you see, sonny, the State law provides that a Governor can be elected by a plurality of the popular vote, while the Federal law provides that a Senator can only be elected by a majority of

The advisory law itself gives to the advised legis-lator the option whether he will vote for the can-didate for whom his immediate constituents have zdvised him to vote, or will vote for some other can-didate who has the largest number of advising districts in his favor.

Construed according to the exact terms of the advisory law, the Senatorial contest will result either in the election of Spalding or else there will be a vacancy. The supporters of Works have a right to adhere to him to the extent of creating a vacancy, but they can consistently vote for Spalding, because he has carried the largest number of advised legislators.

But the supporters of Spalding cannot as consist ently vote for Works, for he has not carried the largest number of advised legislators.

And then maybe the people will elect sixty-one Democratic legislators, who will not be advised to vote for anybody, for there is no Democratic candidate for Senator in the running.

If the Legislature shall be Republican, and neither Works nor Spalding can get the Senator-ship, why not drop both, adopt the Riverside method, make a jackpot of the Senatorship, free for all Republicans who will pay entrance money, and let a virgin with bandaged eyes draw the name of the

When a traveler leaves a beaten road to find a short cut to his destination through a tangled forest he will be apt to get lost. The advisory Senatorial vote law is, a tangled morass—better to follow the old road than get lost in the swamp.

I NCREASED COST OF LIVING.

There were two reasons for the free-coinage-of-silver craze. One of these was a local reason, and the other was a general reason. The local reason was that the Pacific Coast producers of silver desired to again obtain $1,29 per ounce for the yield of their mines. The general reason was that the total production of gold and silver in the world was not sufficient to meet the increasing demands. was not sufficient to meet the increasing demands of commerce for more metallic money.

In 1896, when for the first time free coinage be came a national issue, its advocates were met and overthrown by the unanswerable argument that free-silver coinage without international cooperation was simply impossible. Silver was then selling at 60 to 70 cents an ource. Its value could be enhanced to $1.29 an ounce only by the government first coining all the bar silver and all the silver first coining all the bar silver and all the silver forks and spoons in the world presented to it into silver dollars, and then making those dollars a legal tender at their face value for all debts pub lic and private, and standing ready to redeem at the subtreasury at their face value in gold. If the legal tender and redemption features were not adopted, free coinage of silver would have resulted only in the coined silver dollars being worth no more than their bullion value, and the consequent

When free coinage thus became in 1896 a national issue, the common sense of the American people smote it into oblivion and we heard no more of it.

In the succeeding years the general reason for greater coinage of silver rapidly disappeared, because of the immensely increased production of gold in South Africa, in West Australia, in Cripple Creek, in the Klondike, at Cape Nome and in Southeastern Nevada, and today the world is provided from these sources with an apple supply of metalfrom these sources with an ample supply of metal-lic money. Silver has not relatively diminished in builtion value because of increased gold production, but has relatively increased in value, because it bears the same relation to gold as it did before the production of gold was increased.

Various reasons for the increased cost of living have been assigned by writers and speakers on political economy. James J. Hill asserts that it is caused by continued exodus of men from the farms to the cities, and a resulting decreased production and therefore increased prices for food. Yet so long as the food production is ample to meet the demands of food consumers, without requiring invested of food consumers, without requiring importations from foreign countries, it does not appear that Mr. Hill's solution of the problem is a correct one, for if the farmers receive more from the mechanics for if the farmers receive more from the mechanics for the food sold them, they also pay the mechanics more for the goods manufactured by the latter, and things "even up."

The free-trade advocates insist that high prices are the consequence of the tariff, and that if the tariff were reduced the cost of living would be reduced. This may be true so far as the prices of some manufactured articles are affected, but three-fourths or more of the expenditures of nine-tenths of the people of this country are for rent, and fuel, and light, and food and various articles the prices of which are not affected by the tariff.

One political economist insists that the increased cost of living is caused by the craze of people to own automobiles and that by diminishing the number of chauffeurs the prices of boef and butter will The truth is that the increased cost of living not merely in the United States, but in Europe and Asia, is due largely, if not entirely, to the increased production of gold in the world. It is a maxim of production of gold in the world. It is a maxim of political economy that when money is plentiful prices advance and when money becomes scarce prices recede. Money is not in itself valuable, it is only an elastic measurer of values, a measure which shrinks or swells under the storms of depreswhich shrinks or swells under the storms of depression, or the suns of expansion.

Twenty years ago or more, before the increased annual production of gold began, the interest on money was from 50 to 100 per cent. higher than it is now. When money is plentiful on Wall street it can be obtained for 3 per cent. a year. Every once in awhile the lamb shearers lock it up, produce a temporary financial distress, if not a panic, and for a short time it can be loaned at 3 per cent. a month or more.

It does not appear that high prices occasion disreas, or even inconvenience, except to the small number of people with fixed incomes which cannot be increased, such as accountants, pension receivers, or holders of mortgages. The wages of the laborer are usually the last to be increased, but they are affected finally, and an increased cost of living is carried along upon the country. carried along upon the crest of the wave of pros-perity, which brings to the worker increased wages, to the middleman increased profits, and to the italist increased income.

UNCLE WALT, WARBLER.

BY UNCLE WALT MASON OF EMPORIA.

Where Grows the Sunflower.

I threw my money at the birds; and sages came with warning words, and talked about the rainy day. "You ought to file your scads away," the sages said, "for winter use; don't always have your purse-strings loose. You may fall sick, or blind, or dumb, and when the high-priced sawbones come, and druggists charge you for their pills, and nurses spring their little bills, you'll breathe a wish, in bitter tones, that you had salted down some bones." Their discourse was so wise and grave that I at once began to save; I carried bundles to the bank until exertion made me lank; I haved and saved until my roll would do to plug a stovepipe hole, and then (it broke the banker's heart!) I blew it for a motorcart. It's painted red and gold and green, and fairly thirsts for gasoline. It pants and snorts and smokes and tears, and wildly calls for more repairs. I like the gold old spendthrift way, to blow one's roubles day by day; I like to waste wealth as it comes, in small and unobtrusive sums; that's better than to skimp and shave, and pinch, economize and save for months together, like a dunce, and then blow in your wad at once.

MATINEE SHOW.

The afternoon game was interesting from the fact that Moser finally won a game through the timely help of Lively. Moser lost two the past series and would probably have been beater in the afternoon game had he been permitted to pitch. A single, a double, a sacrifice and a single made two runs off him in the fourth inning. Daley started the eighth with a pass, and was forced at second by Bernard himself being out stealing second. Howard grounded to Cushaw, who juggled the ball. Howard stole second and ran to third when Mitze made a wild throw of the ball. Dillon tried to knock a home run ever the right field fence, but could do nothing better than hit the top of it for a double, which scored Howard Lively was hurried into the game to save it, and he did, for in the inning and a third that he pitched no one reached third.

Neither game was sensational in any way. There was nothing in the feature line in the morning game, but in the afternoon Dillon made a fine lefthanded stop of a wild throw to first, and Magrert had a beautiful running catch of Wheeler's foul behind third hase in the fourth inning.

In the fifth inning of the afternoon game Magrert, after running to first on his infield hit, caught his right foot in the bag and stumbled, strain-

TROLLEY CAR BRINGS DEATH.

WOMAN DIES FROM INJURIES SUSTAINED IN SMASH.

Electric Train Strikes Carriage, De-molishing it and Throwing Occu-pants Out—View of Track Is Ob-scured at Crossing Where Accident Occurred—Others Will Recover.

Mrs. Mary Liedel of Palms died in the Santa Monica Bay Hospital at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, as the result of injuries sustained an hour and a half before, when a three-caf-trolley train of the Los Angeles Pa-cific Company ran into the carriage she was driving.

The accident occurred just west of Palms at the Royer Grove where the whip up the horse and avoid the collision.

The car hit the buggy near the middle. The horse was not injured, but the rig was demolished.

The first intimation that Mr. Liedel had that anything was wrong was when the horse ran home without the vehicle. He at once made an investigation, and arrived at the scene of the accident just as the injured were being cared for.

The train was in charge of Conductor Ellis and Motorman Mize.

This is the fifth fatal accident on this division of the electric line recently.

Boyer's Grove has always been considered a dangerous crossing, and it was only yesterday that one row of the wainut trees was being cut out along the north side of the tracks.

A Town Without Taxes.

A Town Without Taxes.

In Sweden there is a town where no taxes are levied, telephone service is free and it costs nothing for the townspeople to ride on the street cars. This happy condition is due to the foresight of the town fathers of 50 years ago, who set apaff an area of woodland which, by judelous replanting, has been maintained as a source of municipal income to cover all costs of the public service. In the last 30 years more than $5.00,000 worth of timber has been sold from this woodland, and the system of management is such that the returns in the next 30 years will be as large, if not larger. This may seem like socialism, but it isn't. It is business-like conservation of municipal resources, and has nothing whatever to do with politics or political parties.—(Springfield Union.

prompted and controlled the salvation of man.

"The idea of mercy permeated His thought as well as determined His actions. For we find Him vigorously defending His disciples from the charge of violating the Sabbath law by the same rule of mercy, when they plucked the ears of corn to eat on that day. And this consistent attitude of mercy maintained by our Lord was the reason the Sabbath question furnished the ground for one of the gravest charges brought against Him by the Pharisces. They claimed He was upsetting the old religion. He was certainly at variance with the Jewish interpretation of the Sabbath law.

"And yet we must be very cautious

"And yet we must be very cautious about claiming that Jesus Christ has abrogated the religious character of the day of rest. We must remember how carefully He observed the day in all its main features. He himself regularly attended public worship. He nowhere repudiated the Fourth Commandment. He only corrected artificial and inhuman Jewish traditions, and insisted that mercy be the guiding principle in (2.) The $60,000 "raised" was not cash and a large proportion of it never will be. Some of it is promised over and over again and telegraphed over and over, as was the case with the young woman who, in the spectacular manner offered her jewels from time to time and had it mentioned in the papers. Such repetitions of charitable work are considered entirely proper by many in connection with religious work in various denominations, "for the good of the cause." Subscriptions are given publicly without hope of payment, to influence others who are more sincere—some of whom in the excitement give more than they can afford. CHICAGO STOCKYARD METHOD.

STRIKING SERMON.

"The redistribution of wealth is the thing which is agitating this country today. A civil war is now raging around the almighty dollar," said the Rev. Kittredge Wheeler last night in his sermon at the First Baptist Church on the subject. "The New Nationalism of Theodore-Roosevelt." He took his text from Leviticus, twenty-fifth chapter, "And the land shall not be sold in perpetuity for the land is Mine." He said.

"Here you find the greatest of all Magna Charters. It has never been equalled. This Mosaic lay is the first and most fundamental of all laws of the State. The land is the bed rock adorned the highways were planted on property lines, and the majority have to been sacrificed. The removal of the beautiful trees is, even now in progress a long several blocks of Fellingles' avenue, which is a section of the county goods roads extension of Huntington boulevard. On a few avenues parker ways for the trees and sidewalk space were granted the public by property owners. Through usage, title to this strip now vests in the municipality. Owners of abutting property contend that the care of the trees, fumigation and spraying devolve upon the city. The city maintains that it has jurisdiction and denies the right of abutting owners to prune the trees, but refuses to bear the expense of complying with the county mandate to clean up the scale. In effect, the men who gave the trees to the public must maintain them for the public, whereas, had they held to the original property ling they could destroy them when and how they chose.

EL CENTRO (Cal.) Sept. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John Beard, a cotton rancher who lived two miles east of Heber, died at Central Hospital at El Centro last night of rattlesnake bite. Beard heard a commotion among his horses at 11 o'clock on Friday night and arose to investigate, in his bare feet. He stepped out of his door and trod directly on a rattler which sank its fangs in his foot. Beard was hurried to the hospital here, but did not respond to treatment and died in agony. He leaves a widow and two children.

is a candidate from Yuma. Granam county has two candidates, W. T. Webb, once Speaker of the Assembly, and Lamar Cebb, a prominent Democratic politician. But the day is an early one, and there may be more candidates tomorrow.

Within this county the only bad slump from the Republicans was in the city of Phoenix itself, which is normally Republican. The country districts produced even less than the normal Democratic plurality. One precinct, Agua Caliento, had much trouble in getting its votes counted, for its polling equipment and ballots were lost by the express company. So ballots and a ballot box were improvised and the returns went in, 25 for the Democratic ticket and 1 for the Republican. This is a loss of one vote for the Democracy from the vote of last year in that psecinct.

Telephone Today.—Ring The Times and insert your Sunday Want ad. It has been difficult to regulate the telephoning of classified advertisements for the Sunday Times. Effects have been made to relieve the Saturday congestion, on account of their being so numerous, but it has been impossible to judge the particular period of the day selected by patrons to call up the office. Hence the urgent necessity of advertisers telephoning their announcements early in order to insure accuracy in transcribing and afford a superior service in consequence. They can be telephoned any day in the week, with orders to run on Sunday. The office will be glad to receive them, and will take pains to see that all directions are carefully compiled with.

Resous Penniless, Discouraged Girl from Woman's Clutches, Give Her Money and Send Her to Place Where She Can Obtain Employ-

Penniless, out of work and discouraged, a girl was brought into the Central Police Station last night because she was seen in company with a woman who is well known to the police. When questioned, she said she came to Los Angeles from a ranch, had secured work in a restaurant, but that a few days later the place closed and the woman, who was arrested with her, had taken her up and treated her nicely.

While she was teiling her story, the desk sergeant wrote the names of the women on the register and the ball was used at $100 for the older and $25 for the younger. The former produced a roll of bills, tendered her ball and left, saying she would get the money for her friend.

When she did not return, an officer was sent to a certain address to see if she was there. The woman was found enjoying herself.

"Now look here, miss," the desk sergeant said to the prisoner, "I told you that woman was no one for you to be with. She treated you all right before the got you into trouble, but when the

The girl took the money and expressed her gratitude.

As she left the station the desk sergeant said to an officer: "Get busy. Will, and see that this reform job of ours is a success."

The officer hurried down the street. A half block away he saw the older woman standing on a corner. The younger woman was just about to pass her when she joined her. The girl tried to go on, but her companion would not permit it.

The officer quickened his pace. "Now, dearle, come on—" the older woman was saying when the officer reached them.

"Here out that "leastie, stuff and

"Here, cut that 'dearie' stuff and beat it.' 'he said, and the woman lost little time in getting away. The girl was then told where she could get a room and not be bothered, and she went.

Fall brings out a lot of unusual things, enough, and this fall shows, besides an uncommonly heavy crop of hair on college foot ball players, a particularly smart line of new fabrics for those same players to wear when they're not using their football togs.
